was literally a rose herself, as was herbridesandd, Miss Mary Baldwin Toifree, of New York.

Miss Fair's wedding gown gave the appearance of severe simpileity, as no satiu was in evidence, and the style was not calhorate. The skirt was cut close to the figure, sweeping off in an extremely long, rounded train. Old lirish lace alone was used for trimgown and all around the train. The frillings beneath were caught up with tiny rosebush. Rosebush were similarly in evidence on the corsage, which was entirely of lace.
